Amy:

I just spoke with my EPA headquarters NPL contacts regarding the status of the NPL update. I was informed that all private sites have gone through the Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) review. However, there are two federal facility sites in Region 3 that are still with OMB. Once these sites get through OMB, the listing process will go forward. If we get OMB's go ahead on the two Region 3 sites next week, the NPL update may occur on December 5, 2014. I will let you know when I get more information. If you have any questions, please feel free to give me a call.

Thanks

Chris,

Brenda looks out of the office. Do you know when the NPL update will happen?

Thanks!

Brenda,

I am preparing a briefing for our Division Director for our next Board Meeting. Do you have a current update on when the NPL update will happen?

Anything will help!

Thanks!

Amy

Just wanted to check in with everyone now that we are back to work!!! The October NPL update was previously scheduled for this week, but due to the furlough it has been postponed. It will likely be early next week before everything is rescheduled and HQ's provides us with a new target date. If I was going to hazard a guess I would anticipate early to mid November. We are anticipating both Jackpile Mine and Wilcox Oil to be final on the NPL, and Macmillan to be proposed. I will send out further updates as I receive them. Please give me a call if you have any questions.
